The jungle is a very exciting place which is home to so many plants and animals. Here are some ideas and activities to help you explore!

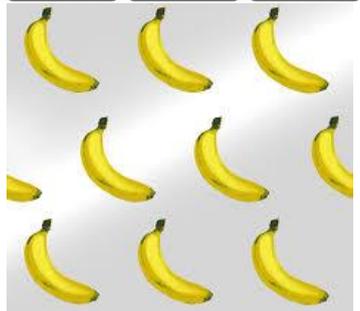

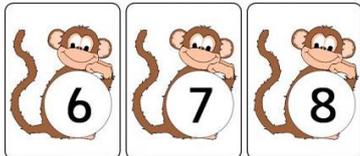

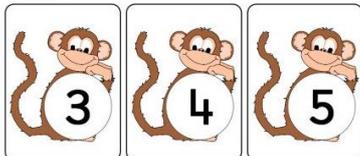

Create your own jungle at home! Or build a jungle den in your garden or in the woods!

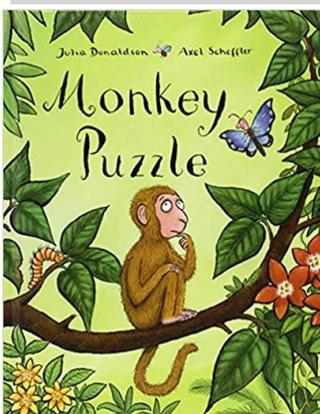

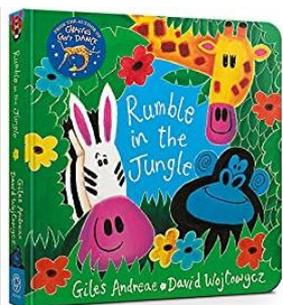

Try making a fruity snack? You could make a healthy fruit kebab. Did you know that bananas, oranges mangoes, lemons and pineapples grow wild in the jungle?

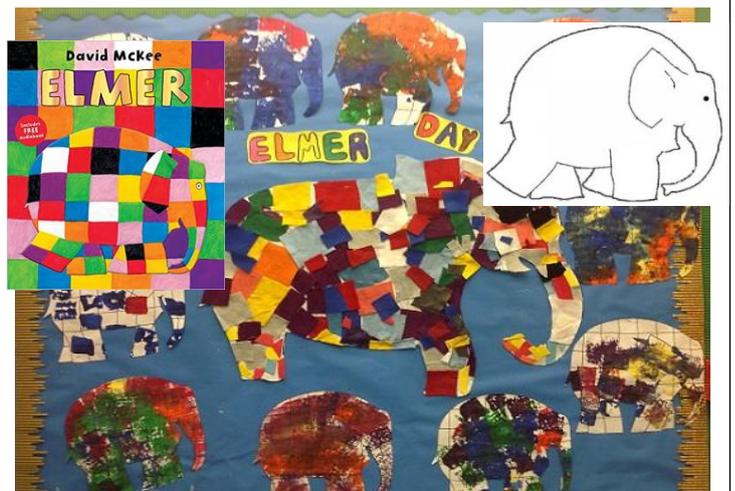

Can you recognise any of these numbers? Can you cut out some little bananas from yellow paper and give the right number to each monkey?

Make an Elma collage

Take a trip to the library. Can you find stories about the animals who live in the jungle? These are some of our favourites!

Do you know the difference between a rainforest and a jungle? They are both filled with trees, plants and animals — but unlike a jungle, a rainforest has a layer of tall trees, called a canopy, that blocks out most of the sunlight. So while jungles have a ton of stuff happening below your feet, rainforests don't — most of the action is happening in the trees above!

Can you tell which picture is which?

Can you recognise any of these letters? The pictures help you to make the right sound! How many of these things might you find in the jungle? Remember to include fruits and animals!

Look for the bare necessities.
The simple bare necessities.
Forget about your worries and your strife.

If you don't already know this song ... ask a grown up to sing it to you! It is from the film 'The Jungle Book'.

It is important we learn about how to look after our jungles and rainforests as they are home to so many different animals and minibeasts. You are the most important people to help us keep them safe in the future.

We hope you enjoyed your jungle activities! We can't wait to hear all about them. Email us at abinger@surreyhills.surrey.sch.uk
