

Creating a database on Purple Mash

Before creating the database consider researching what the fields could be and the records. You may want to use Top Trumps to start getting ideas for a database or completely create your own.

In the search bar type in '2investigate' then click on the logo to open the database app (pictured left).

Click at the top of the screen and give the database a title. In this example, we will create a database about capital cities.

Click on the Design Database icon. The Pencil icon allows the user to edit the database. Start to add in the different fields and the type of answers.

It is possible to add a list of answers for the user to select. In this case we have added the continents.

Press ok and the database is ready to use and add records. Click the pls button to add records

Play around with the tools to help find records with certain criteria or to order and compare your records.

You might want to create some questions for another person to find the answers to.

Likewise you may want to create a database based on characters in a book or game to then compare them. Similarly you could do it with your favourite sports team to find out top players in certain areas.
